DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restriction

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

I. Compounds according to formula (I) which contains alcohol. These are classified in class 568, in multiple subclasses.

II. Compounds according to formula (I) which contains cyano groups. These are classified in class 558, in various subclasses.

III. Compounds according to formula (I) which contains ketones. These are classified in class 568, in various subclasses.

IV. Compounds according to formula (I) which contains carboxamide. These are classified in class 564, in various subclasses.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, alcohols, ketones, cyano groups, carboxamides, esters, acids and ethers are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

The above groups are not exhaustive. Also, what ever use is elected, an election of a single disclosed compound is also required.

Each invention (specific medical condition) is independent from the other since, for example the treatment for a multiple sclerosis is completely different from the treatment of Grave's disease. Moreover, the literature search for the methods would be different as a reference for treating multiple sclerosis would not be in the same reference book as for treating Grave's disease. The separate considerations are therefore, not limited to patent files searching and thus, constitute a burden on the Examiner.

2. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. Upon the election of a single compound species, the examiner will identify a generic concept inclusive of said elected species for examination along with said elected species.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species and the disease/disorder that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

3. An attempt was made to present this requirement telephonically, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

4. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(l).
